

Discharge Reporting – 2016-17 School Year

Background

Local Law 42, enacted in 2011, requires the New York City Department of Education (DOE) to report to the New York City Council by June 30, 2018 the number of students in grades 6 through 12 who were discharged, transferred, or graduated during the 2016-17 school year. This document summarizes and explains the reported data.

This law requires the reporting of discharges and graduations that occur during one school year. The DOE ordinarily presents both types of events in the context of a high school graduation cohort – the group of students who entered 9th grade in the same year. Such cohort reporting reflects discharges that occurred at any time during the cohort’s four years of high school. Graduations and discharges are ordinarily reported by cohort because it allows the DOE and the public to measure how well schools are educating all students who enter their school and preparing them to earn a high school diploma.

The data required by Local Law 42 reflects a snapshot of all students enrolled in a particular school year, regardless of their cohort (year they entered 9th grade). The data included in this reporting therefore differs significantly from most other graduation and discharge results reported by the DOE. As a snapshot of students at different stages of their educational careers, data reported by school year is less valuable than cohort reporting as a measure of New York City schools’ success in keeping students engaged and moving them to graduation.

Official, Publically Reported Graduation and Dropout Rates (for context)

Graduation, Dropout Rates and Discharges Outside of NYC: The New York State Education Department and the DOE reported outcomes for the cohort of students who entered 9th grade in 2013 and completed their fourth year of high school in 2017.¹ According to these data:

- 74.3% of the class of 2017 graduated within four years by August, as compared to 73.0% in 2016.
- 7.8% of the class of 2017 dropped out, compared to 8.5% in 2016.
- A high school student with a confirmed discharge to a public or private school outside of the New York City school district is removed from a school’s graduation cohort. According to these data, the number of students discharged outside of New York City was 8,251 for the class of 2017 compared to 8,018 students the prior year.

Discharge Reporting Results for the 2016-17 School Year

In contrast to the cohort reporting described above, the data required by Local Law 42 includes all students enrolled in grades 6 through 12 during the 2016-17 school year, and only includes discharge and transfer events that occurred during that school year. According to these data, during the 2016-17 school year:

- 13,296 students (2.5% of the 527,849 students enrolled in district schools) transferred between New York City public schools, including charter schools. It was 2.4% in 2015-16.
- 10,639 students (2.0%) were discharged outside of New York City public schools. It was 2.0% in 2015-16.
- 5,976 students (1.1%)² dropped out or were discharged under other codes. It was 1.8% in 2015-16.

² Note that prior years of reporting included “29” discharges, which reflect students who had already been discharged under another code. These students are now counted based on their prior discharge. If they had been included, the numbers would have been 7,311 students (1.4%).

Methodology

At the citywide, borough and district levels, the DOE is required to report discharge, transfer and graduation counts by grade level (middle school only), cohort (high school only) and disability status. At the school level, the DOE is required to report discharge and transfer counts by grade level (middle school only), cohort (high school only), disability status broken down by, age as of 12/31 of the previous calendar year age, race/ethnicity, and gender.

The report contains data for districts 1-32, 75 and 79. For the purpose of the report, the analysis includes the last transaction for each student from 10/31 (the day when official enrollment is established) to the end of the school year. Annual matriculation discharges, i.e. the ones when students are moving from Grade 8 to high school, are not included in the report.

Each discharge code is described below. More information on discharge codes can be found here: <http://schools.nyc.gov/NR/ronlyres/7D895277-1915-42B9-AEE5-73264B65926D/0/TDGCY.pdf>.
